SOCIOLOGY
Introduction
The Department of Sociology aims at developing among the students a demonstrated ability to understand structures and functions of social institutions. It provides an elaborate comprehension of the links between social, economic, political, cultural and ecological aspects of our everyday life in a changing global world. The students, therefore, acquire the skills to develop a greater appreciation and understanding of diverse worldviews and social practices. In addition, the programme of study offers the students an extraordinary opportunity to transform the way they think and act in their social life; acquaints them with basic sociological concepts and principles; equips them with sociological research methods and application of computer in sociological research; enhances their understanding about important social problems at the national and international level; and enables them to apply sociological knowledge for analysing various social situations.
